The social given at the residence of Thomas Whaley, one mile East of Maysville Monday night, proved quite a success, with a large crowd in attendance. Though the evening was dark and gloomy the crowd gathered early. The musical strains wafted on the balmy breeze of the evening carried joy and laughter to each individual present. Dancing was the chief indulgence, though there were interesting games and fortune telling, the latter of which sent many young hearts home full of anticipation for the future.

The evening under the management of E. Hobb of Springdale is one long to be remembered by all taking part. The following is the list of the young ladies present: Misses Maud and Mary Roath, Misses Maggie and Anna Belle King, Miss Sallie Ford, Miss Isabelle Colburn, Miss Minnie, Rosa, Lizzie and Anna Schwartz, Misses Carrie and Maud Hicks, Misses Carrie and Mary Ehrenfeldt of Cincinnati, accompanied by three young ladies whose names the writer failed to get.

A MOVEMENT has been set on foot to secure for Louisville the next meeting of the Supreme Lodge of the Knights of Pythias of the World after that which assembled at Kansas City, August 22d. It is thought that the number of visitors will approximate 100,000.

GRAND ARMY men all over the country, many thousands of whom expect to attend the great reunion at Washington next month, will be glad to learn that they will be given the free use of the White House grounds in the rear of the Executive Mansion for the open air gatherings of the Posts, Colonel Ernst, Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds, at first decided, in accordance with precedence, to deny the use of the largest and most beautiful lawn in Washington for these Post reunions on account of the damage which would necessarily be done to the grass, flowers and shrubbery. However, after a consultation with the President, Colonel Ernst reversed this decision, greatly to the satisfaction of President Harrison himself, and will recommend the Secretary of War to issue a special permit for this purpose.
